

Phi/Psy. Journal of philosophy and psychoanalysis
Recurring Call For Papers
Deadlines: May(July issue) / October(December issue)

"Phi/Psy. International Journal of philosophy and psychoanalysis" is a bi-annual publication dedicated to a new field of studies recently opened up at the intersection of two disciplines: philosophy and psychoanalysis.

Main topics of the journal are: the subject and the unconscious; form and content of the experiences of dream, neurosis, psychosis, and perversion; the intertwining of processes of subjectivation, forms of language and phantasmatic dimensions; the connection between law, desire and enjoyment as ontological, political and ethical issues; "the contemporary" as an enigma of which philosophy and psychoanalysis can fathom the implications.

The journal is published bi-annually by ETS Edizioni (Pisa) (in July and December) and articles will be written in Italian, French, English, Portuguese, Spanish and German.

Submission guidelines: all manuscripts should not exceed 5000 words/25-30.000 characters (space included) and should be written in one of the six languages listed above. Each proposal should also be accompanied by a brief abstract (300 words/10 lines), a list of six key-words and a bibliography.

Editors:

Federico Leoni

Riccardo Panattoni

Assistant editor:

Matteo Bonazzi

Submissions can be sent to:

matteo.bonazzi@univr.it

federico.leoni@univr.it

riccardo.panattoni@univr.it